

THE LEGENDA.

Alfred Mudge & Son, Printers, 24 Franklin Street, Boston.

TO OUR ESTEEMED

INSTRUCTOR IN PSYCHOLOGY,

WHO HAS EVER SHOWN A MOST CORDIAL INTEREST IN '89, AND A MOST HEARTY SYMPATHY WITH HER MEMBERS, COLLECTIVELY AND INDIVIDUALLY,

This book is affectionately dedicated.

SALUTATORY.

"And since, I never dare to write As funny as I can."

"Nunc in relunctantes dracones Egit amor dapis atque pugnæ."

PN putting forth any new venture, many are the experiments, and many the blunders. It is with no little trepidation that we present to the readers of the Legenda this its first number, and we crave their kind indulgence. The time has been limited, and other demands pressing.

We trust that we have established a precedent for succeeding classes, for whose sake we have endeavored to bear ourselves with fitting decorum and sobriety. We have meant to wound no one, and have ever desired to laugh with rather than at. The book is harmless, for it has passed through purifying flames; and as long as dragons remain a feature of the institution, we hope that all classes may be as fortunate as '89.

Our cordial thanks are extended to the many members of '89 who have rendered us assistance, and also to Miss Bertha Jones, of the Special Organization, to whom the Legenda is indebted for many of its illustrations. We desire to thank especially Rev. Dr. Quint, whose services and kindness have been most grateful to

THE EDITORS.

CLASS OF '89.

Мотто: Mehr Licht.

COLORS: CARDINAL AND ECRU.

T is not often the case that a college class must combine in one effort her Salutatory and Valedictory, yet such is the lot of '89, who makes her first and only bow to the college world in the pristine pages of LEGENDA - the last and greatest realization of her composite self. That '89 should occupy this unique position is only consistent with her whole college career; she was considered unique by the Sophomores and Faculty when she entered, and has borne the same character ever since. Our extraordinary brilliancy must have been the reason for this, but we do not advance this as the only truly scientific explanation of the fact. We like the reputation of oddity, however, and do all in our power to add to it; for instance, some of us are thinking seriously of asking that our degrees may not be forced upon us this year, but held over until next, just to be unique, you know.

How true it is that extremes meet! We realize this forcibly since the end of our Senior year brings so vividly before us the beginnings of our college career. We were the largest Freshman class that had, up to that time, entered college, and as examinations drew near we adopted as our motto, "There is safety in numbers." A few slight mistakes were made by us during that memorable first year; notably the choosing as our class tree the white-wood, a Southern grower, which resented being transplanted, and has been in such a delicate state of health ever since as to greatly harrow our class feelings. Then we elected to have as the great aim of all our struggles and the class motto, "Mehr Licht"; and, as was foretold, we got it later in Physics. (N. B. — This additional burden of precious knowledge must have been conferred upon us, in answer to our prayer, by the Faculty, who are ever ready to grant our petitions, and was probably meant to counterbalance our Egyptian darkness on several other subjects.) In this our first Stage of Knowledge, Perception was confined chiefly to Objects, Space, and Externality in General. No one ever accused '89 of grinding in her Freshman year.

How elated and secure we felt on becoming Sophomores, and how crestfallen and wavering after our first short, sharp struggle with P. C. S.! (Fearful hieroglyphs! Some of us thought they meant Poor Crazy Sophomores!) What undiminished joy did we take in telling to every unwary new-comer the standard class jest-nut, "It is a true paradox with us that Puckle is clearest when seen through a Hayes!" In the spring of our Sophomore year, when our brains were softest and conic sections hardest, were we gladdened by our first sight of a queen — Kapiolani. May her shadow never grow less! During our second college year we had arrived at that Stage of Knowledge where Memory of past happy Freshman days came to cheer our toilsome way, and where Imagination as to the results of examinations and the privileges and joys of upper-class life tinged our melancholy hours with a false splendor never to be Realized by the Self.

As Juniors we felt that we had a recognized and honorable place in the student world, and that nothing less than "Tyndall on Sound" had terrors for us. Our Growth of Knowledge was rapid last year, but it was remarked by many (particularly by Prof. Whiting) that most of our reasoning was not a priori but a posteriori; the result of hard experience, as evinced by the fact that we had a second final electricity examination.

Sept. 13, 1888, was a notable day in our class life. On that memorable occasion we occupied for the first time our hardly earned Senior seats. When the glory of walking to the extreme front of the chapel, and seating ourselves with due solemnity began to pall upon us, we tried other ways of amusing ourselves — studying, for example. In fact we began to study pretty early in the year and have been at it without much intermission ever since. In our experience hard work seems to be an essential attribute of Seniority. Our Intuitions warned us that it would be wise to Systematize some of our masses of Knowledge, and with our unfolding Intuitions we arrive at the last Stage of Knowledge. Soon those Intuitions, which are now very vague, will be realized by actual contact with the world to which we go on leaving the sheltered home we have known here for four bright, happy, busy years.

But all our days have not been happy. One sorrow the class has known; Alice Elizabeth Waterman, one of the brightest and most lovable members of our class, has passed away; yet, though she is no longer with us in the flesh, her Christian spirit and fine example are ours to remember always.

It seems superfluous to repeat what must be known to all, yet we will say again, '89 has always been a distinguished class. As Freshmen we were noted for our originality and intrepidity, in fact like the month of March we came in as bold as lions (we sincerely hope we may go out with something of the gentle sheep about us, if it be no more even than his skin); as Sophomores, for our utter failure to grasp the situation; as Juniors, for being "grinds"; and as Seniors — well, for this being our last year in College. Thus have we always been noted for some virtue (q. e. d.), and though we are now arrived at a good old age, we are as fresh and original as ever; witness the Legenda.

"Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale Her infinite variety."

With which modest estimate of her worth, the best wishes to her successors, and a long farewell to the College Beautiful, '89 makes way for the new decade, and hopes that her record has not unworthily occupied the first place in the newly christened Legenda.

In Memoriam.

Alice Elizabeth Waterman,

Of the Class of '89,

Wellesley.

Ginished her Course, Aug. 11, 1888.

Just light enough

CLASS OF '90.

MOTTO: "We will work and mould the woman to the fuller day."

COLORS: HELIOTROPE AND GOLD.

MAN is known by his works.1

The Junior Promenade is the work of the Junior Class.

The Junior Class is known by its Promenade.

Valid. — Barbara.

Resolved: That the Junior Promenade Is a Greater Educational Force than Junior Physics.

A. Affirmative.

I. Introduction.

Definition of Education: Education is not that which teaches the three R's, but is that which trains the hand, the head, and the heart.

II. Body.

The Junior Promenade better fulfils the definition of education than does Junior Physics.

- (a) The hand.
 - I. Trains more hands (not Juniors alone).

Not strictly editorial in form, but under the circumstances, allowed to be inserted.
—EDITORS.

- 2. Trains in wider ways (not in direction of science alone).
- 3. Apparatus more expensive, and requiring greater care in handling.

(b) The head.

- I. Powers of observation and criticism more largely developed.
- 2. The favorite study of the whole class for the entire year.
- 3. Requirement of greater time and preparation.
- 4. Promenade ushered in by advanced stage in History of Civilization.
- 5. Work in Physics, a preparation for the Promenade, as shown in force, light, heat, electricity, magnetism, conservation of energy, etc., ad infinitum.

(c) The heart.

- 1. Already touched upon under subject of magnetism.
- 2. The heart an element not taken into consideration in Physics.
- 3. Resultant of Promenade, "two hearts that beat as one."

III. Conclusion.

Summary.

- (a) The Junior Promenade a wider means of education, embracing a larger number of pupils and subjects.
- (b) The Junior Promenade a deeper means of education as coming into closer contact with inner nature

B. Negative.

To be considered in the next LEGENDA.

The less light the better

CLASS OF '91.

Μοττο: Είς καλὸν καὶ ἀγαθόν.

COLOR GREEN:

UT of the North-land,

Land of the snow-drifts,

Icy and cold;

Up from the South-land,

Land of the summer time,
Land of the roses,
In their green garments,
Trembling and fearful,
Came many sea-nymphs,
To Waban Mere:
Came they by fifties,
Came one September,
Year eighty-seven.
Here dwelt Greek maidens,
Clad in white raiment,

Versed in Philosophy; Here were the Amazons, Great in "Historic fame," Greater in "Physical": Pallas Athene's birds Here dwelt in concord. To this assembly Came the green sea-nymphs, Yet best prepared were they, In knowledge various Rivalling all others Who had preceded them, But they were children Of the fair Undine. One thing was lacking, Spirit they had none, Spirit of Wellesley, That grand institution. Then the Owls came to them This to inculcate In sea-nymphs' bosoms; Bringing their gifts they came, Fanciful, moulding tools, Graven with purple ink; By this sweet emblem Meaning to teach them That life may be moulded Even to owlishness. Then came the Amazons, Versed they in mysteries, And magic lore; Came they on Hallowe'en, Whispered their secrets dark, To the awed sea-nymphs; How they too should reach Unto that height of bliss,

When once the spirit came. Then the Greek maidens In generosity Gave them the dainty boat Namèd the Hesperus, Star of their setting, With which on silver waves Swiftly to glide On to the goal. Yet from all these The spirit came not; Not in the Hesperus, Not in the secrets dark, Not in the moulding tools, Lingered the spirit. Greatly the nymphs did mourn. Gathered one eve were they Just before dinner, In their historic hall Lofty and vast, Planning State secrets they, Organization. Then came the owls once more Kindly to aid them; Made the 'door fast without Tied with red tape; Wildly the nymphs did rage, Madly they beat the door, Bursting red tape asunder; Then did the owls cry out Lo! see the spirit!

Scattered were sea-nymphs then, Gone to their homes again Far in the North-land, Far in the South, Till past were the summer days, Come was September. Back flew the nymphs once more To Waban Water, Brought they their sisters Many and beautiful. These did they long to teach, These did they long to guide, Quickly and surely, To Wellesley's true spirit. No thought of time they took, Led them 'mongst fern leaves In flowery pathways; Nothing too hard for them, Nothing too difficult, If their dear sisters Might profit thereby Till now rewarded, Rest they in calmness By Waban Water.

CLASS OF '92.

Μοττο: Ἐφ'αληθεῖα.

COLORS: WHITE AND CLOVER PINK.

AM the largest class that ever entered Wellesley, and I am the most remarkable. I am a vast improvement on every Freshman class that has ever preceded me. I am not, for instance, so inanely sweet and goodnatured as '89 was, when Freshmen. (N. B.

The '89 Freshmen did not have the class of '90 for Juniors, or they might have been—ahem!—different.) Nor have I gone to the other extreme and tried to own the entire earth as '90 did, when Freshmen (and continue to do still to this day). Of course, there is needed no proof of the fact that I am, immensely superior to '91.

Absolutely without fault, I am possessed of many marvellous virtues. Item: I am modest; I always show the Seniors of '89 due respect, I never rush in before them and crowd the elevator. Oh, no! Item: I am industrious; I never grumble about domestic work, I never write inflammatory articles for the Courant on the subject. Oh, no! Item: I am quiet in behavior; I never whisper or study out loud in the library. Oh, no! Item: I am of a peaceloving disposition; I never fight with the Sophomores more than once a term, and when I do, I know when to yield gracefully, I never hold out against them very long. Oh, no! Item: I am obedient; I am never disrespectful to the Faculty; on the contrary, words cannot express my reverence for them. Oh, no!

I have had my trials, however, in this short year of college life: what genius has not had them? Mathematics and Chemistry laid me low in the dust with the ashes of humiliation upon my dishevelled hair. But e'en they could not crush the budding genius, sprouting within my bosom. I arose. I seized my pen. The divine afflatus was upon me. I wrote, in one moment, at least a dozen poems for the Courant upon every imaginable theme. Perhaps triangle, cosine, and tangent will never come within my sphere of knowledge, but I am, notwithstanding, every atom of me, a poet, a compound of noble sentiments and beautiful thoughts, an element of grace and inspiration in our college world.

There is another of my good qualities which I neglected to mention before. It is a virtue which all the classes, '89, '90, and '91, might well imitate. I am never in a hurry. If you do not believe me, mark the way I stroll into chapel every morning. "Plenty of time," I would say to the panting Senior or growling Junior behind me, "all this time in the world. Be calm." I will relate the secret of my peaceful placidity. Early in my Freshman career, I took time by the forelock, at the very first note of alarm; nay, I not only seized the old gentleman by his much ill-used bang, but I chained him fast with padlock and key, in my study. To be sure, he escaped, after a while, but I trained him so well during his captivity, that I have never been annoyed by any pressure from him since. This, my friends, is the reason I am never late to chapel, or meals, or recitations; the reason such a calm assurance rests upon my unclouded brow.

I think I have related all the most important facts about myself. At this early stage in my career, I am easily able to give an epitome of my great qualities and noble deeds. But I feel sure that '92 will require the whole of the Annual to contain all her exploits and achievements by the time she is a Senior. Such is the promise of her early youth.

SPECIAL STUDENTS.

UR ancestor Specials in their day, and we in ours, have listened patiently to words of reproach against our loved class of infinity, from those who have thought themselves our betters because they were our seniors. It is a noticeable fact that we never answer, but, with beautiful submission, take all — that we can get. At last our free day has come; the Specials may now speak for themselves.

Once again we will show that beautiful spirit which is ever and always our characteristic, and will pass lightly over the injustices which have, from time to time, been heaped upon us. We will not here answer all the jokes at our expense which have gone the rounds year after year, and which always create a laugh only because there are new Freshmen and new Specials who have not heard them the years before. Perhaps we are "rolling stones," as we have so often been told. But while others have merely noticed that "rolling stones gather no moss," we would call their attention to the fact that such stones roll away all their sharp corners and edges, and come out beautifully polished.

Because we have shown this quiet and dignified resignation before alluded to, very few realize the wonderful capabilities and glorious attainments of the Specials. In lessons of experience, which all acknowledge to be the most valuable of a lifetime, who can compare with us? How many of our members have already led the minds of the youth of this nineteenth century into pathways whose ends, we are proud to say, are unknown! What class in Wellesley can boast of such maturity as can we — maturity not only of years, but also of thought? We would not appear egotistic, but we cannot help knowing that we are wise. It is proven in theory by our age and experience; it is proven in practice by the manifestations which all have seen in the class-room. Then, too, we are broad — broad in our opinions, broad in our tastes. It is safe to say that any Special student can show a greater variety of subjects in her course than can any other member of the College. The range is from Freshman Drawing to Speculative Philosophy, and includes every combination.

It might seem natural that the other sides of the nature should suffer from so great intellectual culture. But not so; we are not in the least one-sided. Our sympathies are ever open to appeal. When Seniors and Juniors were, twice in a day, debating the advisability of giving up a pleasure for the sake of the starving Chinese, we held one meeting and sacrificed all refreshments from our social—think of it! everything—in order to send that money to China. We have never been bashful about mentioning this generous act of ours, for we realized so fully what the effect of its influence might be. We even went so far as to tell it immediately throughout the college halls.

Innumerable instances of this kind, and many even more praiseworthy, might be cited, but we forbear. Before another year shall have passed, there will be other great deeds to which we may call your attention. May your young and inexperienced minds be ready to grasp their full significance!

PHILOSOPHY CLUB OF '89.

In the fall of '85, Prof. Morgan formed a club, consisting of some of the members of '88, at that time Sophomores. The time of the club was devoted to the study of the interpretation of literature. This was the origin of the various philosophy clubs which have since been formed. Prof. Morgan, during the years of '86–87, was away on her sabbatical year, and Miss Case, with her former Latin classes as the nucleus, started the club of '89. To her enthusiasm is due its steady increase in numbers and interest from its very beginning to the present time.

The club has met weekly for the hour after dinner on Friday evenings. The Sophomore year was devoted to Jowett's translation of the "Phædo," Andersen's "Fairy Tales," and a study of the general principles of art, as seen in architecture, sculpture, painting, music, and poetry. The Junior year opened with a study of the general principles of the novel as a work of art. After this preliminary study, the remainder of the year was devoted to "Romola" as a concrete example of these general principles. The greater part of the Senior year has deen devoted to the study of Political Philosophy, based on Prof. Dewey's "Ethics of Democracy." Aside from this main line of work, one evening has been given to "Robert Elsmere," one to the interpretation of music, one to "next year," two or three to general religious questions. One whole Friday evening has been taken by Dr. Harris, editor of the Fournal of Speculative Philosophy, in the interpretation of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony and Moonlight Sonata, Misses Middlekauf, Knox, Cook, and James furnishing the music.

The last meeting of the year, it is hoped, will be given to a fairy story, written by Miss Case. '89 has many pleasant things to recall, and not the least of these does she count the Friday-evening club, which, under Miss Case's direction, has come to be a recognized part of the life of '89.

Beside the club of '89 there are others which cannot be omitted, even in the briefest sketch. In the fall of '87, under Miss Hurll's direction, a small club of Sophomores was started, Miss Case at the same time forming a club of other members of the same class. These two clubs were finally merged in one under the direction of Miss Hurll. Under Miss Case, Andersen's "Fairy Tales" were read, and under Miss Hurll, the time was devoted to the study of pictures. The year '88–89 has found '91, under Miss Hurll's guidance, engaged in the study of pictures, and the Juniors, under Miss Morgan's direction, studying the interpretation of literature.

From the one club, then, started in '85, there have sprung these several clubs, until now we find one in each of the three upper classes, while the club of '89 can look back upon a prosperous career, three years in length.

'89 BOAT SONG.

Ι.

Blow, merry breezes, blow,
Speed us as on we go.
Frolicsome waters rock our boat,
· Afloat, afloat.
Gayly the wavelets dance,
Brightly our oar-blades glance,
Joyous the song our voices raise
In Waban's praise.

II.

Lo, as a bird that sings,
Floating on tireless wings
Ever away, now here, now there,
Without a care,
Skimming the waters bright,
Happy our hearts and light,
Never a care to bid us fear
Shall greet us here. (Repeat I.)

III.

Fairy waters, bear us away,
On thy bosom, rocking and singing,
To thy beauty peaceful or gay,
Homage would we be ever bringing.

Ah!

Mirrored heavens kiss thy fair brow, Bending tree-tops whisper a greeting; Sweet birds warble their love songs low, Echoes answer, the notes repeating. (Repeat II.)

'90 CREW SONG.

I.

As sweet as the breath that goes From the lips of the white rose, As weird as the elfin lights That glimmer of frosty nights, As wild as the winds that tear The curled red leaf in the air, Is the song I have never sung.

п.

In slumber a hundred times
I have said the mystic rhymes,
But ere I open my eyes
This ghost of a poem flies;
Of the interfluent strains
Not even a note remains.
I know by my pulse's beat
It was something wild and sweet,
And my heart is strangely stirred
By an unremembered word.

III.

I strive, but I strive in vain,
To recall the lost refrain:
On some miraculous day
Perhaps it will come and stay.
In some unimagined spring
I may find my voice, and sing
The song I have never sung.

'91 BOAT SONG.

ī.

Hark, ho! Hark, ho! Hark, ho!—
When the waters bright are dancing
In the golden evening glow,
And the sun's last rays are glancing
On the wavelets as they flow,
Then with hearts all free from sadness
To our bonny boat we hie;
And sweep o'er the waves in gladness,
Ever singing merrily.

CHORUS.

Pull, pull, pull,
Pull with measured stroke and true,
While our voices wake,
Praises to our lake.
Yes, our song is all to you,
Waban's waters blue,
Waters heaven's own hue.

11.

Nature joins us in our singing,
Soft the waves break on the sands;
Zephyrs sweet to us are bringing
Songs from sunny southern lands.
Birds in evening carols praising,
Leaves that rustle forth their song,
Swell the chorus we are raising
As we swiftly glide along. (Chorus.)

III.

Shadows of the night are falling,
Evening's golden light has fled;
O'er the hills, the night-bird, calling,
Tells the gentle day is dead.
Softly gliding o'er the waters,
Drifting 'neath the stars' dear light,
Mother Earth, thy happy daughters
Sing to thee, good night, good night. (Chorus.)

TREE SONG.

CLASS OF '89.

ALMA MATER.

To Alma Mater, Wellesley's daughters
All together join and sing;
Through all her wealth of woods and waters
Let your happy voices ring.
In every changing mood we love her,
Love her towers and woods and lake;
O changeful sky! bend blue above her,
Wake, ye birds, your chorus wake!

We'll sing her praises now and ever,

Blessed fount of truth and love;

Our heart's devotion may it never

Faithless or unworthy prove.

We'll give our lives and hopes to serve her,

Humblest, highest, noblest — all;

A stainless name we will preserve her,

Answer to her every call.

COLLEGE SONG.

All hail to the College Beautiful!

All hail to the Wellesley blue!

All hail to the girls who are gathering pearls

From the shells that open to few;

From the shells upcast by the ebbing Past

On the shores where, faithful and true,

An earnest band, with a groping hand,

Are seeking the jewels from under the sand,

And spreading abroad through the breadth of the land

The name of the Wellesley blue.

CHORUS.

All hail to the College Beautiful,
All hail to the royal throne,
Whence, her heart within her burning,
Silver-voiced, far-eyed Learning
Looks upon her own.

All hail to the College Beautiful!

All hail to the sacred walls!

Where, sinking away in shadowy gray,

Still the sun's last radiance falls.

Where first on the lake the day-beams awake,

And the Spring's white manacles break;

But, flushed in waking or pale in rest,

With leaves on her hair or with snows on her breast,

Forever the fairest and noblest and best,

All hail to her sacred walls! (Chorus.)

KATHARINE LEE BATES.

A BOAT SONG.

LAKE WABAN.

INSCRIBED TO THE CLASS OF '87.

Air: "MARYLAND, MY MARYLAND."

Lake of gray,
At dawning day,
In soft shadows lying;
Waters kissed
By morning mist,
Early breezes sighing.
Fairy vision as thou art,
Soon thy fleeting charms depart;
Every grace that wins the heart,
Like our youth, is flying.

Lake of blue,
A merry crew
Cheer of thee would borrow;
Happy hours
To-day are ours,
Weighted by no sorrow.
Other years may bring us tears,
Other days be full of fears,
Only hope the craft now steers,
Cares are for the morrow.

Lake of gold,
With gems untold
On thy bosom glowing,
Pictures fair,
In ambient air,
Through the sunset showing.
When morning hours are with the past,
And memory's gaze is eastward cast,
The golden time shall then outlast
Each gift of thy bestowing.

Lake of white,
At holy night,
In the moonlight gleaming,
Softly o'er
Thy wooded shore
Silver radiance streaming.
On thy wavelets bear away
Every care we 've known to-day,
Bring, on thy returning way,
Peaceful, happy dreaming.

BITTER SWEET.

SHE is a Senior and her father writes "Rev." before his name; yet when asked to look up Hebrews responded earnestly, "I am very sorry, but I have only a New Testament here."

It is a strange but true fact, that after the reception which the old Specials gave to the new Specials, the factorum of the organization collected from the new Specials the money to pay the expenses of said reception, which, by the way, did not occur on Sept. 31, as previously planned.

In what can "indisposition" be likened to "charity"?

INSTRUCTOR IN BOTANY. — "I wish each student to carefully observe the growth of some one bud for the next two weeks."

STUDENT (two weeks later). — "My results are unsatisfactory. I don't know why, for I have observed it every day. I laid the bud on my bureau, so I might not forget to observe, but it has not grown."

Teacher (after the twenty minutes recess, to a class of students who have spent the last twenty minutes in close communion).—"Which grow the better—trees in meadows or trees in groups?"

CHORUS OF UNSUSPECTING VOICES. — "In meadows."

TEACHER. — "A word to the wise."

(RESULT. — That class spends its recess still together, but out of the range of the teacher's vision.)

A CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

Teacher. — " Miss Stone, will you recite?"

ONE MISS STONE (rising slowly, and with evident disgust). — I — I — I don't think I am exactly prepared."

Teacher. — "I beg your pardon, — I meant the other Miss Stone."

'89'S LAMENT.

"I never loved a tree or flower, But 't was the first to fade away."

QUERY. — Why should we call our Annual "The Precedent"?

Answer by an '89 Girl. — "Because it is the only precedent we have been allowed to establish."

IN SOPHOMORE LITERATURE.

INSTRUCTOR.— "Surely you can mention something besides the 'Elegy' which Gray wrote!"

Student (after deliberation). — "I believe he was the author of a Structural Botany."

Special (breathlessly to Scnior). — "Oh, please tell me who was the author of 'Plutarch's Lives.'"

Teacher (who is generally late, and whose pupils have discovered the fact and act accordingly, to the four students who are on time). — "Does any one know why the members of this class are so late?"

(Dead silence; for all knew and no one dared to state.)

FRESHMAN BIBLE.

Instructor.— "While the Israelites were in the wilderness, upon what were they fed?"

Miss S. — "Upon loaves and fishes."

WE recently heard a lecture announced by a teacher which would be given by herself either at 2.20 or 4, Tuesday. We thought that she must have forgotten the previous appointment with her Bible class at that hour.

It was a Professor's room, and on the door was, "Do not knock unless your business is important." Suddenly a Freshman appeared on the threshold and offered the following explanation for her unceremonious entrance: "I saw the notice and I did not think my business was so very important, so I just walked in."

IN RHETORIC.

CRITICISM offered upon a highly wrought regular dime-novel description of a cave. To the objections the teacher says, "I suppose the author had to keep strictly to the truth."

(The truth was, the author had never seen a cave.)

Mrss K. wished to go rowing, but alas, the "boating book" was full; so down to the pier she went and took the boat as an unsuspecting Senior landed. On Miss K.'s return an irate Junior met her with, "Did you not see that the book was full?"

"Oh, yes," innocently responded the Freshman; "but was n't it all right to come to the wharf and take it?"

SHE wears a ring on the third finger of her left hand, and yet she was heard to emphatically declare that for her part she thought it was wicked to change one's name.

Freshman to Senior. — "Can you tell me what hour is appointed for room-work?"

AN ETHICAL QUESTION.

INSTRUCTOR. — "How did Cain know it was wrong to kill Abel?" ANSWER. — "He had the Ten Commandments."

Miss S—— is the only student in college who, according to her schedule, recites Bible at 1.30, Friday.

SCENE.

FIRST FRESHMAN. — "I don't like our class flower; do you?" SECOND FRESHMAN. — "Yes; why not?"

FIRST FRESHMAN. — "Those Seniors will probably mention a popular game of the season."

"DULCE" GLEANINGS.

OH dewy, dewy was the morn
And dewy was the night,
When first I hailed these college halls
In a Senior's garb bedight.
But woeful would have been my Case
Had I known what now I do,
That in this part of the universe
It's "Dewey" the whole day through.

AFTER a careful scrutiny of the new bulletin-board, a Freshman was heard to ask, "Is that the Board of Advisors?"

Breathless Freshman -- "What hour does the 3.10 quiz recite?"

AGASSIZ ASSOCIATION.

STATEMENT. — A woodpecker walks up a tree but cannot come down in the same way.

QUERY BY STUDENT.— "How do they get down? Do they always have to stay?"

With downcast eyes the maiden stood
Before her high ideal,
And offered the fairest flowers she could,
With feeling that was real.
"They are not very nice," she said;
"They are not very pretty, 't is true,
But somehow they strongly reminded—
They reminded me strongly of you."

SPECIMENS.

"Oftentimes excusing of a fault Doth make the fault the worse by the excuse."

[&]quot;Indisposition."

[&]quot;My watch being in town."

[&]quot;Absence from College caused by going to see some friends sail for Europe."

[&]quot;The appearance of my aunt, who is probably the only relative that will come to see me while I am here, five thousand miles from home."

[&]quot;Unexpected pressure of domestic work."

[&]quot;Editorial duties."

- "Unavoidable and unexpected delay upon the way."
- "The lateness of the bell in ringing, which would have made me late."
- "The coachman forgetting to call for me."
- "My having to go back for something after I had started."
- "I fell asleep."
- "The illness of another girl."
- "Duties which required my attention at that time."
- "Tiredness."
- "Going out in the rain, and stopping to put on slippers."
- "Desire to attend a funeral."

YE RATTLE.

It was ye Benior Presidente,
In classe meetins one day,
Who to ye sirk assembled there
A worde did have to say.

"A note did come to me lagte eve,
And these the words it voiced,
That our dear Abbie of Concord towns
In fairest sonne resoiced.

"Now to ye childe what shall we send,

Fair maids, I pray ye say;

Ond with ye sold of our fund we'll buy

Ond send ye sifte away."

The this I make my plea."

The uppe another maiden roge:

"What boy doth want a ring?

Wigh an ivery top to buy,

Und not another thinge."

The maident rose with no delay And each her choice did state.

Her own choice the did plead for well, all others the did hate.

Oh! Babel then arose that day,
O'er top and spoon and ball;
But one fair maid who this did say,
To silence put them all:

"Now hark, ye maide, unto my worde, und follow out my plan, — unattle to ye childe let's gend, 'will please ye little man.

"An ivery rattle let it be,
With 'graved gilver plate,
That it from '89 doth come,
Then add ye name and date."

Then Mary Went to Boston towne That rattle for to buy, and soon ye rattle out did come To slad ye Benior eye.

Clem Winnie Was a playful maid,

A playful maid Was she;

She took that rattle out to play,

Und rattled it with slee.

ye rattle fell from out her hand,

It crashed on the floor;

Clas for little Charlie 6.,

Ye rattle Vas no more.

Once more went Mary to ye towne, ye rattle for to mend;

This time straishtway to Charlie To.

Ye rattle she did send.

MORAL.

Now hark ye, sentle maids, to this; Whene'er ye rattles buy, Let no Clem Vinnie in your midst These rattles e'er espy.

FROGS.

In the halls of Wellesley College, In a time now dim in memory, Dwelt a maiden, fair and youthful, Who was deeply versed in science. Once — the legend runs in this wise — To the frog-pond went this maiden, Bent on catching frogs unwary. Do you ask me, what the reason? I will tell you — for dissecting. At the set of sun, the maiden Stopped her self-appointed labor, Toward the College bent her footsteps, With a coffee-pot unsightly Having in its depths the froggies. Passed the maiden through the portal, On the marble placed her burden, In the "Centre's" sacred precincts; To the office went this maiden. Through the "Centre" came a Senior,— Came in pride and Senior glory, Viewed the pot with stern displeasure, Battered was it, tin and olden. "Freshman antics," quoth the Senior As she bent to lift the cover. "Leave the pot alone, O Senior!" But the Senior answered only: "Doth a Senior take her orders From a Sophomoric maiden?"

With the words came off the cover, — Wildly leaped the frogs for freedom, Shrieked the Senior in her terror; Through an open doorway near her Swiftly went the meddling maiden, Loudly crashed the door behind her, Fiercely was the transom banged. Loudly rang the maiden's laughter As the Senior's fear she witnessed; But when downward fell her glances And she saw batrachians leaping, Then her heart was stirred with anger By the Senior's foolish action. From the fourth floor to the basement Went she then, - unhappy maiden, -Chasing her aforetime prisoners. Of this maiden and her troubles Doth the legend tell us further -How the frogs o'er fourth-floor railings Leaped and fell to regions lower, Meeting there a fate still sadder Than the maiden e'er had purposed. But the tale is one of horror, So in outlines dim I'll leave it.

"BURIED CITIES."

[From the Short-hand Notes of ———.]

2.20, TUESDAY, April 1, 1886.

Young Ladies, — It gives me pleasure to address such an intelligent, and, if you will permit me to say it, so beautiful an audience. I am privileged to transport you on the wings of fancy to cities, which, long buried under the dust of ages, have yielded up their treasures to modern exploration.

Let us first turn to Pompeii; you will remember that this city was destroyed by the action of Vesuvius, in 79 A. D. I will not speak of the bronzes, coins, and other unimportant articles which have recently been brought to light. There have been other discoveries more interesting to us.

I was present at the excavation of what was once the dwelling of a proud Pompeian noble. We made our way through the marble atrium, and finally penetrated into what had evidently been the chamber of the mistress of the house.

The body of the high-born lady, and that of her humble attendant, were discovered crouching in a corner, as if seeking to escape from the fiery flow that had overwhelmed them.

Jewels were scattered around in rich profusion, and there, on the table, were the appurtenances of the toilet; there was the rouge pot, — for they used rouge in those days, just as ladies do now; of course you don't: a look at your faces would tell that, — there was the false hair, which was never again to grace its fair owner's head. I might go on and mention other articles, for fashionable women have ever been the same. Last year, when I was in Paris, I saw a lady drop her handkerchief; she tried to pick it up, and went this way, and this way, but her pull-back was so tight that she was unable to bend over far enough, so I picked it up for her. And just here let me tell you, if you ever go to Paris, never to call for boned turkey at a café; they will bring you boned donkey if you do!

But to return to Pompeii. We left that chamber of death and made our way through to the kitchen. There was the petrified form of the cook, and in his stony hand a dish rag that he was wringing out when his awful doom overtook him; a dish rag wrung out centuries before the Christian era—think of it!

But we must not linger longer in Pompeii, for we have to visit the tomb of the Pharaohs.

I saw the mummy of Pharaoh's daughter unrolled; there lay the royal heart, that once beat with such passionate love for Moses, now still and cold.

A mummy case containing the bodies of two sisters was found. Clasped in each other's arms they lay — twin rosebuds, beautiful in their sisterly devotion, after the lapse of so many centuries.

But we must hurry on to ancient Troy. You know there was considerable dispute as to its site. Dr. Schliemann dug where he thought it stood; twenty feet down he found a city, but that was not ancient Troy; then he dug twenty feet more and found another city, but that was not ancient Troy; then he dug another twenty feet and found another city, and that was ancient Troy.

I see my time is up. I am sorry. I could almost say I would give fifty dollars for the privilege of addressing you another hour; yes, I would almost give one hundred to tell you of the Xanthus in which the white-armed maidens bathed, and of the bracelets and ornaments that were found, but I must stop, I suppose. I hope to have the pleasure of addressing you again soon.

HE editors take this opportunity to acknowledge the kindness of those advertising in the Legenda, and to recommend them to the patronage of the students and friends of Wellesley College.

Teachers' Co-operative Association

OF CHICAGO.

This Agency finds more Places for Wellesley Graduates than all other Teachers' Agencies combined.

WHY?

For this reason: Mr. Brewer, the manager, has faith in the Graduates of Wellesley College. He believes they have a better preparation for teaching than the Graduates of any other College or Normal in the country. Hence, he gives them his strongest endorsement and they are placed in the best positions.

Mr. Brewer is interested in the promotion of Wellesley Graduates. Help him by your co-operation. Write him of your work. Write of the work and successes of your classmates who are teaching. He wishes to become acquainted with every Graduate of Wellesley who is now teaching successfully. Your letters will be welcome. He will tell you of many Wellesley Graduates he has placed. And if at any time you want promotion, he will work for you, not for the commission alone, but as a friend of Wellesley College.

WANAMAKER'S.

No store in the world so big as Wanamaker's. No dry goods business in America so great. Size alone don't count, but do you suppose a business would grow as this has if goods and prices and treatment were not right?

There is no question about either. Any proper thing for wear, or home use, or decoration, is here, and for as little as anywhere else — probably for less.

Things for Women's Use and Wear first and foremost. Sporting Goods, Furnishing Goods, Housekeeping Articles, and a wilderness of other things.

It is something to know that you have at your command a store that reaches into the corners of the earth for whatever is worth your getting. No made thing so trifling or so precious that is not likely to be at Wanamaker's, if it is worth your buying thought. You know that the thing you want will be there, and that the price will be fair. That is one of the corner-stones of the store.

Another feature very like a corner-stone: You are at home at Wanamaker's. Your comfort is thought of. There are resting and reading and retiring rooms for you; telegraph and telephone facilities; places to leave your parcels; conveniences very dear if you are far from your other home.

We sell more books than any other store between the oceans. A large assortment of French Books; Seasides and Franklin Squares; Standard and Miscellaneous Works, bound and unbound, at a fair price, no matter what the publisher's is.

The newest books are always on our new-book table. Book News lifts their covers and tells if they 're worth a closer acquaintance and gives the Wanamaker price. 5 cents, 50 cents a year.

Writing Paper, Envelopes. Card Engraving—as you would have them. Favors for all occasions, or specially designed for any.

You can write for what you want and get it as well as if you came to the store.

PARTICULAR ATTENTION PAID TO PRIVATE PARTIES, COLLEGE SPREADS AND WEDDING RECEPTIONS.

A WELLESLEY GRADUATE wrote not long ago to a former classmate, that of all her wedding gifts the very > loveliest was a set of dainty finger-bowl Doilies, made personal and artistic by delicate "etchings" and suggestive mottoes.

There can be no risk of "duplicates" when the gift involves the giver's own skill and taste, linked with individuality as to design. Yet taste and skill are not the only requisites. One's "materials" must be the best, and not only that, but specially prepared for the intended work.

The only ink thus prepared is known as "Whiting's Indelible Etching Ink." The neat wooden cases contain the ink, large bottle of "preparation," six ebonized etching pens, directions, etc., and the complete case is delivered free anywhere, on receipt of $1.00. Address the Manuf., F. A. Whiting, Wellesley Hills, Mass.

USE SAPODONE FOR THE TEETH.

Sapodone is the trade name for a liquid, saponaceous dentifrice which is giving perfect satisfaction to those that use it. It contains no injurious ingredients, or substance, the use of which the most exacting dentist could not fully approve.

It cleanses the teeth and sweetens the breath, and leaves a cool, refreshing sensation in the mouth.

We desire to call your attention to this preparation, and invite you to give it a trial.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE. — First wet the brush, then add a small quantity of Sapodone and apply to the teeth in the usual manner.

Sapodone is put up in two sizes: 2-ounce vial, price 35 cents; $3\frac{1}{2}$ -ounce vial, price 50 cents.

RIVERSIDE SCHOOL,

AUBURNDALE, MASS.

Miss DELIA T. SMITH, Principal.

This School, the special design of which is to prepare girls for Wellesley College, is situated in the beautiful village of Auburndale, Mass., a ward of the city of Newton. It is on the line of the Boston & Albany Railroad, ten miles west from Boston, five miles from Wellesley, and within seven hours' ride from Albany and New York.

The School is essentially a Home School, the number of resident pupils being limited to twenty, who are under the personal care of the Principal. Only such restrictions are thrown around them as are deemed necessary for their health, safety, and improvement.

The classes in Latin, Greek, and Mathematics are under the charge of a graduate of Wellesley College. The instruction in German and French is given by native teachers, special attention being paid to composition and conversation. Teachers of acknowledged ability and experience, who have enjoyed the best advantages in Music and Art, are employed in these departments. More than usual prominence is given to the English studies, the Principal believing that other branches too often usurp the time and place that our own language and literature justly deserve.

Pupils who satisfactorily complete the College Preparatory Course may enter Wellesley College without further examination,

The eighth school year will begin October 2, 1889. Early application is necessary to admission. For circulars and other information, address the Principal.

"A MONUMENTAL WORK."

CYCLOPEDIA OF PAINTERS and PAINTINGS

EDITED BY JOHN DENISON CHAMPLIN, JR.

CRITICAL EDITOR, CHARLES C. PERKINS,

CORRESPONDING MEMBER OF THE FRENCH INSTITUTE.

WITH MORE THAN TWO THOUSAND ILLUSTRATIONS.

A FULL BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY

OF THE PAINTERS OF ALL TIMES AND SCHOOLS.

Both biographical and descriptive articles are based, not upon statements accepted in any sense at second hand, but upon close research, making this work virtually an original authority—the facts being derived from the latest monographs in all languages on the several painters and schools, from the art periodicals of many countries, and from autobiographical memoranda and other original material.

A CYCLOPEDIA OF THE GREAT PICTURES

OF THE WORLD, CONTAINING SPECIAL ARTICLES ON ALL FAMOUS PAINTINGS UNDER THEIR OWN NAMES.

The important paintings of all periods are treated under their own names, in separate articles, in which are given accurate descriptions of each work, its date, its place of preservation, its history from the time of leaving the painter's easel, notices of its replicas and copies, the names of its engravers, and such other facts as make the account as nearly as possible exhaustive.

A SUPERB COLLECTION OF ILLUSTRATIONS

OF ITS SUBJECT.

The articles contain careful and accurate outlines of the important pictures of the older masters (intended as aids to the verbal description, and as memoranda of the compositions); portraits of prominent painters, living and dead; and fac-similes of monograms and signatures. Each volume has, in addition, as a frontispiece, an original etching of a modern painting, the four including a representative American, English, French, and German work.

SOLD ONLY BY SUBSCRIPTION THROUGH AUTHORIZED AGENTS.

Studies in English Literature,

A Guide to the Study of 19th Century Authors,

By Louise Manning Hodgkins, Professor of English Literature in Wellesley College. 26 authors: Scott, Lamb, Wordsworth, Coleridge, Byron, Shelley, Keats, Macaulay, Dickens, Thackeray, Robert Browning, Mrs. Browning, Carlyle, George Eliot, Tennyson, Rossetti, Matthew Arnold, Ruskin, Irving, Bryant, Hawthorne, Longfellow, Enerson, Whittier, Holmes, and Lowell. Separate pamphlet on each 5 cents each, or per hundred, $3.00. Complete in cloth, $1.50. The unique removable hinding allows each leaflet to be used separately. Ey the use of these full lists of aids, the laboratory method is applied to English Literature after the same comparative method used in natural science, history, or philology. The main headings in the Robert Browning leastet exhibit the plan of the series. (1) Significant Facts in the Life of Robert Browning. (2) Biographical Writings. (3) Selections from the Shorter Lyrics and Dramatic Poems of Browning. (4) Selected Dramas. (5) Browning's Greatest Dramatic Poems. (6) Selections from Hellenic Poems. (7) Selected Books of General Reference on Robert Browning. Though not so exhaustive as a general bibliography, it includes the freshest and most original books selected from a much larger number, and thus becomes a valuable select bibliography for professors, teachers, literary clubs, private students, and every library, large or small. It is the rich fruit of class-room experience, and exactly adapted to school and college classes throughout the country. It is a pathfinder among the broad highways and pleasant bypaths of MODERN LITERATURE, It is a substitute for Emerson's "Professor of Books." It tells what books to read and how to read them. It is pre-eminently a book for busy people.

Book lover, this book will delight you!

BAILEY'S HOTEL

AT SOUTH NATICK, MASS.,

So well known as the old town of Mrs. Stowe's book, and historically as the scene of the labors of Eliot, the apostle to the Indians, has been thoroughly repaired, painted, and refurnished, and is now open to the public.

This Hotel is on the line of the Boston and Albany Railroad, three quarters of an hour's ride from Boston, and is connected by way of stage to Wellesley College, passing the beautiful estate of H. H. Hunnewell.

Guests are conveyed at meal hours to and from the College free of charge, by coach.

A good Livery is connected with the house, and good Fishing, Boating, Bathing, and other recreations are at the command of guests.

A. BAILEY, of Bailey's Boston Express, the proprietor, is thoroughly acquainted with all the details of the business, and will leave nothing undone that will conduce to the health, comfort, and convenience of the guests.

A. BAILEY,

PROPRIETOR.

Springer Brothers' Cloak Establishment.

THEIR SUMPTUOUS NEW BRANCH HOUSE.

MESSRS. SPRINGER BROTHERS, who are recognized as the foremost fashionable cloak makers of America, have recently opened an entirely new establishment at the corner of Washington and Bedford Streets. It is called a branch house; but this so-called "branch" is a whole establishment in itself, and while it is small in comparison with the other great places of the Springer Brothers, it is nevertheless a very large place, consuming almost three whole buildings. This establishment is not a branch in the sense of an agency, but it has been opened by the Springer Brothers to show some of the choice goods for which they are so famous throughout this country. The three buildings have been remodelled throughout, both inside and outside, and form one of the handsomest places of business to be found anywhere in this country or in Europe, and have already become one of the noted sights of Boston. The furnishings, the decorations, the arrangement, and the conveniences are all designed and executed in the best taste.

The main establishment of the Springer Brothers is the conspicuous block five stories high, built of sandstone, fronting on three thoroughfares, Essex and Chauncy Streets and Harrison Avenue,—the site of the former home of Wendell Phillips. The factory buildings are on Green Street, near Bowdoin Square. The firm in busy seasons give employment to nearly one thousand operatives. Besides the establishment in Boston, they have also a wholesale house in San Francisco and purchasing agencies in several European cities. They manufacture every variety of outer garments for ladies, misses and children, and their goods are unsurpassed by those of any manufacturers in the world; and the trade everywhere look to Springer Brothers of Boston for the introduction of the most stylish and most acceptable garments in their line.

To all members of Wellesley College, as well as other educational institutions, Springer Brothers offer a discount of six per cent on any purchases they may make at either establishment.

FOR ART STUDENTS

AND THOSE CONTEMPLATING A VISIT TO EUROPE, THIS WORK IS ESPECIALLY VALUABLE.

A HISTORY OF ART.

BY

WM. H. GOODYEAR.

Mr. Goodyear has endeavored to present a comprehensive, brief sketch of the entire subject—including Architecture, Sculpture, and Painting—copiously illustrated, and unencumbered with the details which are unfitted for an elementary book intended for American use. The deservedly popular German compendium of Lübke is too large and too expensive for general use as a text-book, and the several abridgments of this book have followed too closely those aspects of Lübke's work which unfit it for popular American use; viz., the lack of specific and explicit explanation on points which are more familiar to Germans than they are to American students, and the over-numerous references to objects, aside from those illustrated, which are inaccessible to them. The author of this work has endeavored, as far as possible, to confine the text to objects illustrated.

The book comprises three hundred and fifteen pages, of which one hundred and fifty are devoted to illustrations, including two hundred and sixteen subjects.

SOUND AND CONSERVATIVE OPINIONS.

The book gives a comprehensive sketch of Architecture, Sculpture, and Painting, intended for Americans who cannot hope to attain to the possession of Lübke. The principles of Art are clearly stated. — Publishers' Weekly.

The best criticism one could make of this book would be to say it is useful and timely. Mr. Goodyear gives compact, but fairly complete, historical sketches of the three branches of Art—Architecture, Sculpture, and Painting. The style is clear and to the point. — The Epoch.

Mr. Goodyear shows himself, in the main, well informed and painstaking. His critical remarks display intelligence, good taste, and moderation. — The Art Amateur.

The book is liberally supplied with illustrations, this being one of its principal features.

— The Book Buyer.

As a text-book or as a handy volume to carry to Europe with one as a guide to Historic Art, this book seems to be peculiarly suitable, both by reason of brevity and at the same time its completeness. — The American Architect and Building News.
